Bachelor Thesis Assessment: Andrea Zollner

Tutor: RNDr. Petr Šimek, CSc.

Andrea Zollner started her study and laboratory work at the Laboratory of Analytical Biochemistry of the Institute of Entomology two years ago. Being heavily tasked in two lines of the Austrian and Czech syllabus, her approach remained initiative and optimistic in solving biochemical and analytical challenges and difficulties encountered during the work-up of the bachelor study.

Andrea Zollner smoothly and quickly acquired basic skills required for the reliable urine sample processing, the extract separations, subsequent mass spectrometric analysis and critical data assessment. In the course of our regular communication and numerous discussions on the topics of biochemistry and analytical chemistry, I came to a conclusion that Andrea is a skilled, active student capable to get the BC level and participate successfully on the future magister program and research projects.

Considering the personal qualities and capability of Andrea to adapt to the demanding university conditions, I appreciate her approach and the results accomplished and can recommend her thesis to be defended before a BC University Committee.
