Questions and comments

Critical comments and overall contributions, total value of the thesis

The thesis is written with great personal passion for the subject. The student uses a very good literary background which she builds on in the practical part of her work. The issue of communication in an international environment is a contemporary issue in many companies and international projects.

The author's findings support the theoretical claims that language plays one of the dominant roles in communication. It also suggests some improvements that would improve the effectiveness and sense of security of intercultural working relationships

Questions and topics for discussion before the commission

How were the respondents selected for interviews- randomly?

Why did you decide to do an internship at the non-profit development agency sequa gGmbH ?

Do you have other experiences of intercultural teamwork and collaboration, for example in student projects?
