Questions and comments

Critical comments and overall contributions, total value of the thesis

The subject of the work is to compare the available open-source shopping cart software using a suitable methodology.

In his work, the author appropriately conducted a search of published articles, I would welcome the use of a wider range of selected sources.

As part of the methodology, I am missing a mathematical description of the apparatus that was used for evaluation and calculation of values for software selection.

I have reservations about processing the formal side of the work. Some tables and figures are positioned outside the edges of the page and the source is missing, the label format is not uniform everywhere.

I have small reservations about the citation apparatus used in the work. In the list of resources, I am missing links to referenced shopping cart software and the use of book resources.

From an overall point of view, I find the work to be very good.

Questions and topics for discussion before the commission

Which of the shopping cart software described by you would you choose for deployment in your e-shop and briefly justify your choice.
